Dear Ann Greyson,

I am delighted to reach out to you regarding your book, "Birdwatcher." You've created compelling material, and I believe it has strong potential for a film adaptation. After a meticulous evaluation by our content acquisition team, we would like to formally introduce your work into our pitching portfolio for our production partners.

In general, STX Entertainment, is a next-generation film and television studio that produces and acquires motion pictures and high quality television programming at scale. We have entered into collaborations with several major production companies, including projects in development for platforms like Netflix. Your story aligns perfectly with the type of high-impact, emotionally driven narratives these platforms are seeking for global audiences.

To clarify, we are not acquiring the rights to the book itself — our focus is on the screenplay you have written or plan to write. Do you already have a completed screenplay based on your book, or would you be open to preparing one for further review?

Sincerely,

Tim Albert
Executive Assistant
